

BIG PROBLEMS OF WORLD BUSINESS

John A. Shields Returns From Atlantic City Where He Attended Important Conference.

TRADE CONDITIONS REVIEWED

Representatives of Foreign Countries Emphasized Necessity of Food Supplies.

John A. Shields, president of the chamber of commerce, returned last night from Atlantic City where he attended the international trade conference of the National chamber of commerce. The conference was one of the most important of the kind that has been held since the close of the World War and economic and commercial conditions were thoroughly reviewed.

"The principal cry of the representatives of the foreign countries was for food," declared Mr. Shields in speaking of the conference. "All of the European countries are in need of food supplies and from what I heard, I judge that the conditions in Italy are worse than in any of the other countries. Evidently the food supplies in Italy are alarming low."

Mr. Shields said that nearly all the foreign countries represented at the conference must buy from the United States more than they can sell and in this lies the big problems to be solved. The conference considered several plans to stabilize exchange rates which have become a serious matter with the uneven distribution of trade between America and the United States. France, he said, is able to produce more iron than it can use and will ship surplus supplies to Italy and other countries.

Germany sent a mission and while that country was not expected to be represented, it was learned that the Germans have already worked out a plan for the rehabilitation of Belgium under the terms of the treaty. However, Germany is not able to furnish the necessary building materials and these will probably come from the United States.

Six foreign countries sent official missions and a number of others were represented by semi-official missions. Much of the work of the conference was done in committee rooms as it was found that a division of the program would be productive of the best results.

The problem of financing the foreign countries for reconstruction was discussed by Secretary Redfield and others. Redfield proposed that a big bond issue be floated in this country for this purpose. He suggested that the bonds be issued in denominations of $50 and upwards so that the public generally could invest.

Mr. Shields was accompanied to the East by Mrs. Shields. Following the conference they visited Washington and other points of interest in the East.

THIS COUNTY TO BE REPRESENTED

Henry Fosbrink, of Vallonia, is Delegate to Indiana Federation of Farmers' Associations.

STATE MEETING NOVEMBER 18

Attempt Will be Made to Secure Quota of $2,500 Before That Date —B. G. Shannon Alternate.

Henry Fosbrink, of Vallonia, will represent Jackson county as the voting delegate at the first annual convention of the Indiana Federation of Farmers' Association which will be held in Indianapolis November 18. B. G. Shannon, of Redding township, has been selected as the alternate. Each county affiliated with the federation is entitled to but one voting delegate.

George Stahl, Jr., of Jackson township, is the president of the Jackson county organization and he stated this morning that several other farmers who are interested in the work of the organization will also likely be present at the convention. Mr. Stahl as president, is making an effort to arrange his work so that he may attend the sessions. Many important questions pertaining to farming are to be discussed at the convention.

The association is striving to complete its quota of $2,500 for State Work before the convention meets. A total of about $1,300 has been subscribed.

Only the counties which have become affiliated with the parent body not later than October 25 will be eligible for representation, one delegate to represent each of the organized counties. With sixty counties already members of the state Federation and several others perfecting their organizations, every in-

TEACHERS WILL ATTEND MEETING

Schools To Be Closed Thursday and Friday on Account of State Association Sessions.

PROGRAM OF MUCH INTEREST

Eminent Educators Scheduled to Give Addresses on Important Educational Subjects.

School boys and girls in Seymour and Jackson county will have a vacation on Thursday and Friday. The public schools here and elsewhere in the county adjourned this afternoon and classes will not reconvene until Monday morning. The vacation is due to the sixty-sixth annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association which will be held in Indianapolis Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Practically all the teachers in the county expect to attend the session.

Thomas A. Mott, superintendent of the city schools, and Harry B. Henderson, county superintendent, have urged that the teachers attend the sessions as important educational subjects are to be discussed by some of the most eminent educators in America. The teachers themselves are not adverse to attending the meeting for the salary law provides that they shall be paid full time while they are attending and the convention affords a little diversion from their routine school work. However, regular attendance at all the sessions

POLES ARE BEING REMOVED RAPIDLY

Committee Well Pleased With Progress Made by Interstate Public Service Company.

SERVICE WIRES TO BE CHANGED

Several Business Houses Will Have to Change Wiring to Connect With the Feed Lines.

The work of changing the interurban wires to anchor from buildings instead of poles along Second and Chestnut streets preparatory to installing the new street lighting system is progressing nicely. Three blocks have been completed and the force of linemen started on the fourth block this afternoon.

The rain the last few days has interfered to a large extent with the progress of the work but nevertheless the Interstate Public Service Company is pushing it rapidly and the committee representing the city and citizens are well pleased with the results. Providing the weather will permit it is expected that the work of removing the poles will be completed by the first part of next week.

HIGH WATERS CAUSED BY RAIN ARE FALLING

Water is Still Over the Road in A Few Places Where Creeks Have Overflowed.

The high waters which resulted Monday from the heavy rain have started to fall according to reports from over the county today. However, in some places the water has backed up over the roads making them impassable.

James Knost, carrier of rural route Number 2 was unable to get over all of his route Tuesday and today on account of the high waters between the Mutton Creek and Muscatatuck river bridges. He reported the water falling and it is possible that he will be able to go over his route by the latter part of the week.

DOGS ARE MORE VALUABLE NOW THAN EVER BEFORE

Sportsmen Are Paying Fancy Prices For "Canines" That Are Good Hunting Animals.

Dogs are more valuable these days than ever before according to local sportsmen. The prices of all breeds of dogs that can be used for hunting purposes are increasing in value.

According to some good bird dogs are scarce and those who own them are not anxious to sell. Hunting dogs that formerly sold for from $5 to $10 cannot be bought for double that money now and good ones are being sold for as high as $75.

HOOVER DECLARES LOWER FOOD PRICES ARE IN SIGHT

Large Surplus of Supplies Accumulating, Expert Tells House Committee.

Washington, October 29—Lower food prices must come within the next few months because of the large surplus of supplies now accumulating, Herbert Hoover, America's food expert, predicted before the house war expenditures committee today. The results of this year's harvest will be a surplus of from sixteen to twenty million tons of food, Hoover said. This accumulating surplus already has reflected in the lowering of wholesale prices, he said, although no noticeable decrease has been shown in retail figures.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Says He Intends to Make The United States "Bone Dry."

By United Press

Washington, Oct. 29—The national prohibition lid was being clamped down today with the government ready to use all the drastic powers of the enforcement bill which became law late yesterday when congress over-rode the President's veto.

The first work of enforcing wartime prohibition, according to the law, lies with the bureau of internal revenue. Evidence concerning violation of the law will be collected by the bureau to be turned over to the department of justice for criminal prosecution. Evidence concerning violation, particularly in the larger cities, has already been collected and the attorney general is expected to start wholesale prosecutions within the next few days.

Daniel Roper, commissioner of internal revenue, made it plain in a public statement that he plans to make the nation "bone dry." The immediate effect of the law will be the stopping of the sale of two and three-fourths percent, beer since the enforcement law prohibits the sale of any beverage containing more than one-half of one percent, of alcohol.

"Not to enforce prohibition effectively would reflect on our form of government," Roper said.

"Close co-operation between federal, state, county and municipal officers is of utmost importance. Col-

MINERS' LEADERS TO FRAME ANSWER

Lewis Says Strike Can Be Averted if Operators Will Agree to Negotiations.

DISTRICT HEADS PRESENT

3,000 Miners at Bicknell Telegraph That They Desire Union to "Stand Pat."

By United Press

Indianapolis, Oct. 29—The coal strike order still stands, it was announced this afternoon at a recess of the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America which met in conjunction with the district presidents, scale committee and international officers to consider among other things the President's request that the strike order be rescinded. There will be another meeting this afternoon and "an important statement will be issued," it was announced. The district presidents insured John L. Lewis, acting president, of their staunch support, saying they "were back of him to the man," according to Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers' Journal, and official spokesman for the miners. He added that there was nothing to indicate Lewis had changed his position regarding the strike. To explain the position of the miners to the public a committee will draft a report to the conference which will be in substance a reply to President Wilson. This will be made public at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Those on the committee are: William Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers; Philip Murray, of Pittsburgh; John Moore, of Ohio, Ed Stewart, of Terre Haute; president of district 11; and France Harrington, of Illinois.

Although the executive committee meeting was called before the president declared the proposed strike unlawful, John L. Lewis, acting president, said the meeting today would "take cognizance of the general situation."

One telegram received by Lewis before the meeting said that 3,000 miners at Bicknell, Ind., in a mass meeting last night, lined up strongly behind their union leaders and denounced the stand President Wilson took in the issuance of his statement.

Lewis reiterated his assertion that there is no change in the situation so far as the miners are concerned.

Lewis asserted that the coal operators can avert the strike by submitting their case to negotiations. He said the miners have offered to do this repeatedly, but that the operators would hear only one proposition—that the Washington wage agreement stand until next April or the technical date on which the war is declared ended.

The miners head said President Wilson's views have changed "won-

LEVER ACT MAY BE USED TO DEAL WITH WALKOUT

Former Fuel Administrator Called to White House by Secretary Tumulty.

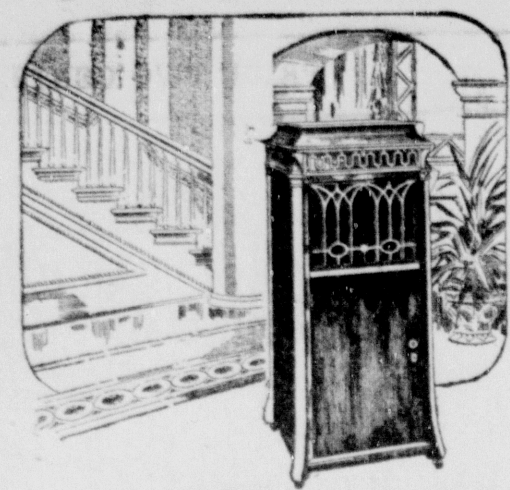

By United Press

Washington, October 29—Dr. Harry Garfield, former United States fuel administrator, visited the White House today at the request of Secretary Tumulty. It was said he was in touch with the coal strike and expressed confidence the strike would be avoided. As fuel administrator, Garfield worked out with the miners and operators the so-called "Washington wage agreement."

Significance was attached to Garfield coming here in light of the fact that President Wilson's cabinet has determined to employ provisions of the Lever food and fuel act, if necessary, to prevent a stoppage of coal production. This act under which the fuel administrator was created would allow the government to seize mines and move against persons responsible for halting production of necessities.

I shall support the bill."

LABOR TROUBLES.

There has never been a time in the history of the United States when the industrial situation was as grave and complex as it is now. Strikes and walkouts are frequent. Organizers are numerous and new "demands" are published daily. Strike propaganda is sent out broadcast and agitators are busily engaged telling prospective strikers that their condition is "unbearable."

The situation summed up briefly, is that conditions are not what any class, professional, labor or capital, desires. But the conditions are not due so much to oppression of any one class against another as to the lack of production and the unprecedented demand. The resultant shortage produces higher prices. This condition of affairs cannot be permanent. In time we will settle back to normal times and the thing we ought to look forward to is that our future prosperity and contentment may not be injured.

In order to reach a satisfactory settlement the contending sides ought to meet with the view to give and take so that a amicable understanding may be reached. Strife and force destroy. Arbitration is constructive. It is the re-construction of the nation that is most desirable now. One union cannot and ought not expect to dictate to the entire nation. If such an organization can force its demands any other union or group of people has the same privilege. If labor refuses to arbitrate then capital has equal right. What is established as a principle must be broad enough to be fair and equal to all.

When one group of organized workmen attempt to force their demands it is doing an injustice to other workers, who are citizens of the United States and rightfully expect to be protected from oppression. The coal miners, for instance, have no right, either legal or moral, to compel the consumers of coal to pay them a subsidy above what their labor is actually worth just to get them to work. In case the miners strike thousands of other workmen will be thrown out of employment. Such action cannot be countenanced. The thing to do now is for the contending factions and groups to settle down to a common sense basis and reach a settlement that will not only tide over an emergency but will be permanent, insuring justice and equality to all.

The prohibition enforcement law certainly is not a three and three-fourths per cent. measure. It is the real thing.

The President probably knows now how the house and senate stand on the question of national prohibition.

DAWN

By JACK LAWTON

(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

Jerome Barris in the hour of his great success was but a disillusioned, disappointed man. Still young, and having won the golden key to favor, he drew back wearily before those doors it might open.

During his years of struggle and need none of these friends, who now so eagerly strove to share his triumph, had made an effort to stretch forth a helping hand. Even the girl whom he had so deeply loved and who had professed to return his love had grown weary waiting and had heartlessly jilted him for an acknowledged man of the business world.

Now that the dream of Jerome Barris was realized he smiled cynically at this same woman's proffered notes of reconciliation—his former love had become a widow, but her charm for him had vanished before her insincerity, and all this superficial adulation now wearied him. He longed to get away from it, to get back to a certain spot which had often been his refuge.

To Barris this small place, with the sea stretching out before, was home, his one sure haven.

It was here that his great picture was born—the picture which had won for him fame and fortune. Years ago, when his heart was sore with its disappointment, he had gone, after reading the announcement of the one girl's marriage, to the seclusion of this little house, there to shut out from curious eyes his deep hurt. And when at sundown he sat upon the tiny porch a boat had come drifting down a golden beam toward him. And in the boat sat a very young girl. Unbound, her golden hair rippled over her shoulders, and her upraised face was glorified in the light.

Barris called his great picture "Maidenhood."

Impulsively he had called her as she drifted by, and had run down to draw her boat in to the shore. The girl, who was perhaps fourteen or fifteen years of age, acceded readily to his request that she pose thus again for a picture. "I'll make the arrangement with your people," Barris suggested.

"I have no people," the girl told him, and as she went on with the strange story of her own life he knew what had brought the shadow to her young eyes. She had been washed to the shore in a boat tossed upon a stormy sea before she was old enough to remember anything about it. A man and woman found drowned later were thought to have been her parents, but she had never known. A fisherman finding the child carried her to his wife who had befriended her, until as the girl grew and the wife became an invalid the charge was transferred.

They called her "Dawn," the girl told him blushing, because it had been at dawn that the fisherman found her.

And as days passed and Dawn came to pose for the artist he learned more and more of the hard incongruity of a young life which longed for great things and must be satisfied with common duties. Dawn's heart was full of music and her mind yearned for knowledge.

When upon his return later from the city Barris learned from his old housekeeper that Dawn's invalid charge had died he sent at once for the girl and bade her make her home in his house on the shore, arranging passage for her to and from a school in the adjoining village and finding her a music teacher there. Then in the absorbing occupation of his city studio the artist forgot about the little girl, who never ceased to think of him with reverent adoration.

Barris, long absent from the house by the sea, sought it out again after one of his trips abroad and learned from the old housekeeper that his protegee had secured a position as teacher in a near-by village and left word that he would hear from her later.

The artist smiled and frowned. "She should have allowed me to complete her education," he said. Then his pleased eyes fell upon the inviting furnishing of his beloved old room.

"You keep the place up well," he commended his housekeeper.

"That's Dawn," the woman replied; "she comes out here and sees that things is all new an' convenient. 'We must keep 'it home—for him,' she says."

After that came to the artist regularly small checks in the name of the village bank, with notes in a girlish hand.

"Of course I can never repay what you have done for me," wrote Dawn. "This is just to assure myself that I would if I could."

And at length, wearied by labor and surfeited with flattering attentions, came to Barris a longing wish for the restful house by the shore. And when he reached it at sundown, sailing again across the golden water toward him, came the girl who had made his great picture. Standing on the sands at her side he told her so.

"You speak of repaying your debt to me," said Barris. "My dear girl! do you realize that it is I who am in-

"And I wish I might give you that," said Dawn.

"I hope—I believe—that you will," Barris answered softly, and they looked into each other's eyes.

Keep the Cow In the Pantry—A High-Bred Cow

Have milk as you want it, without shortage or waste. Have a milk that is germless and safe. Have cream when you want it and milk when you want it without two separate supplies. That's what we offer in Van Camp's Milk.

Only a Few Can Get It

Milk like Van Camp's can never be produced for all. So we select localities and supply the grocers there. Then we announce it to the homes in those sections. This city is now supplied.

Van Camp's Milk comes from high-bred cows in seven great dairying districts. The cows are regularly inspected and kept in a sanitary way.

Close to each dairy we have a condensery. There the fresh milk is placed in a vacuum. Then low heat is applied until half of the water evaporates.

The result is a milk as thick as thick cream. It is twice as rich in butter fat as ordinary milk.

You use it as cream for your coffee. You dilute it somewhat for your cereals. Add an equal part of water and you have a rich milk for drinking. Dilute as you wish for cooking.

Safety Above All

This is sterilized milk, utterly germ-free. The dangers which lurk in bottled milk are absent.

THIRTY-FOUR NATIONS AT WOMEN'S CONFERENCE

Wages, Eight Hour Day and Working Conditions Are Scheduled for Discussion.

By United Press

Washington, October 29—Wages, the eight-hour day and betterment of working conditions are the principal subjects scheduled for discussion at the world conference of womenworkers which opened here today under the formal title of the First International Congress of Working Women.

Womenworkers of 34 countries were invited to send delegates. Delegates from nearly all countries now are here overflowing hotels and private homes in which many are guests. Others will arrive before the week ends, officials said.

Among the countries whose women workers sent delegates are Great Britain, Canada, France, Belgium, Italy, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Argentina and Uruguay. Each was entitled to 10 delegates and no limit was put on the number of secretaries and assistants.

Nearly 500 delegates and assistants will register before the congress closes, it is predicted. Among the delegates representing the United States is Mrs. Raymond Robins of Chicago, president of the National Women's Trade Union League of America, which called the congress to meet in conjunction with the International Labor conference scheduled to open tomorrow.

All subjects to be put before the International Labor Conference will also be introduced in the women's congress, according to Mrs. Robins. Arrangements for the women's congress were made by the International committee of the National Women's Trade Union League which committee includes Mrs. Robins, Miss Mary Anderson, director of the woman's bureau of the U. S. Labor Department, Miss Agnes Nestor of Chicago, Miss Rose Schneidermann of New York and Miss Julia O'Connor, head of the women's section of the National Electrical Workers' Union.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCES TO BE HELD IN INDIANAPOLIS

Governor Goodrich To Deliver Address on Rural Education Tomorrow.

Indianapolis, Oct. 29—Two important educational conferences were held in Indianapolis today under the auspices of the state department of public instruction. The meetings include the first Indiana state conference on rural education and the state conference on character training.

The conference on rural education was opened with an address by Governor Goodrich on "The State and the Rural School" at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the house of representatives, State House. Other speakers at the afternoon session included Dr. W. W. Black, Indiana University; A. O. Dewese, superintendent of the Harrison county schools; Z. M. Smith, state supervisor of agricultural education; Clifford Funderburg, Huntington County school superintendent; Miss Amalia Bengston, county superintendent, Olivia Minn., and H. B. Roberts, Henry County school superintendent. At the evening session of the conference J. L. McBrien, United States Bureau of Education, Washington; John F. Sims, president Wisconsin State Normal School, and O. H. Williams, state supervisor of teacher training, will deliver addresses. L. N. Hines, state superintendent of public instruction, will preside at the sessions of the conference.

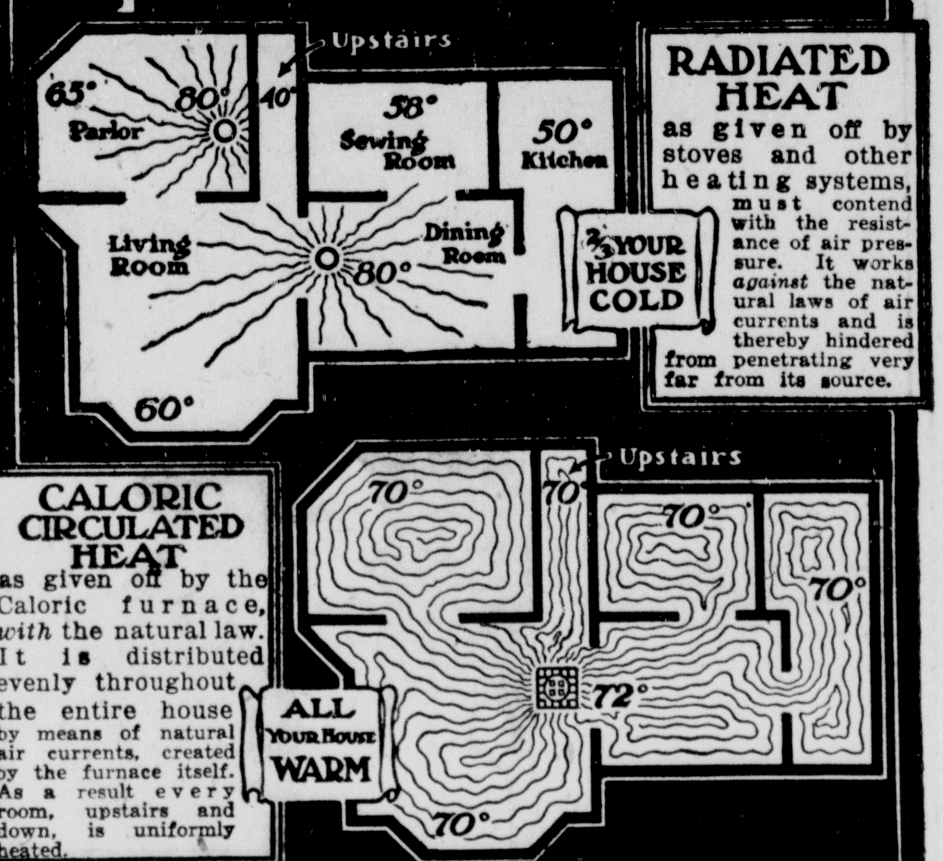

The conference on character training met at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the office of the state superintendent of public instruction. At this session plans for the work were discussed by the committee of nine collaborators, consisting of Jonathan Rigdon, chairman, president Central Normal School, Danville; H. L. Smith, Indiana University; W. A. Mills, president of Hanover College; E. L. Rickerts, superintendent of the Connersville schools; C. F. Miller, superintendent of the Nappanee schools; A. E. Weaver, Elkhart County school superintendent; Miss Katherine Beeson, Lafayette; Mr. Hines and Mr. Williams.

The evening session of the conference will be held following a dinner at the Hotel Lincoln at 6 o'clock. Father J. A. Burns, president of Notre Dame University, will speak on "Is the Moral Character of American Youth Degrading?" J. O. Engleman, superintendent of the Decatur, Ill. schools, will discuss "Character Training in the Public Schools." Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon of Evansville and Dr. Mills will also speak.

Arrangements for the conference were made by Mr. Williams.

Keep Your Home Warm All Over

Take Your Choice!

Heat your entire home at less cost than heating only a part of it with stoves. You can do it with the Caloric Pipeless Furnace, which has revolutionized furnace heating by doing away with pipes. It requires only one register, on the ground floor of your home, and thru this every room is made warm.

The principle is simple and practical. As the heated air rises from the furnace thru the center of the register it spreads throughout the whole house, forcing the cold air down into the furnace. There it is purified by the intense heat, properly moistened by a special water pan and again rises and circulates into every nook and corner. This produces a delightful, warm and healthful atmosphere, of even temperature, in every room of the house. The has numerous exclusive patented features that make it unequalled for heat capacity, economy and convenience. Easily installed in one day in any house, new or old. Burns any fuel. Takes little room. There is no smoke, coal, gas or dirt in the house—no heat-wasting, expensive pipes in walls or cellar. The cellar is always cool enough for storing fruits and vegetables. There is no fire danger—no bother to keep the furnace in first-class condition. We guarantee its satisfactory operation or we will take it out. We also guarantee a saving of at least one-third of your fuel bill. Do not confuse the Caloric with other pipeless furnaces. It is not merely a furnace without pipes, but is built on an entirely new principle in furnace heating. The manufacturers have put into it the experiences of ninety-nine years in business, and stake their reputation on its ability to meet every claim.

CALORIC

Come in and see this wonderful furnace. Ask for our book "Progress," which is a fully illustrated explanation of pipeless heating, and how this method is perfected in the Caloric Furnace. It gives every important fact about home heating and fuel saving. Let us show you this great furnace, and tell you whether it can be used in your house to advantage.

FIFTY NATIONS ARE REPRESENTED

Delegates Meet in Washington to Discuss International Industrial Principles.

PART OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Recommendations of Conference Are Binding Upon Legislative Bodies of Participating Nations.

By United Press

Washington, Oct. 29—The League of Nations was to begin to function today when representatives of fifty nations convened here as the International Labor Conference.

The purpose of the conference is to make world rules to govern industrial relations.

Organized as a part of the League of Nations, the conference is the first formal meeting of any part of the League.

Subjects to be considered by the conference number only five and were prescribed by the peace conference at Paris. These subjects are: The 48-hour week and eight-hour day.

Unemployment—causes, national and international and the cure.

Women in industry (a) at night (b) in unhealthy surroundings.

Children in industry (a) minimum age (b) at night, (c) in unhealthy surroundings.

Extension to all nations of the prohibition against use of the dangerous white phosphorus in the match industry.

Under the program of the League of Nations the recommendations of the conference on these subjects will be morally binding upon the legislative bodies of all nations participating.

Representation in the conference is determined by membership or prospective membership in the league. Each nation is entitled to four delegates and 10 secretaries for each delegate. Three of the four delegates from each nation were named by the government and the fourth by the chief labor organization of that country.

Before the conference has been in session a week, more than 1,000 persons will have been brought here by it, officials estimated today. Washington hotels now are overflowing with delegates and secretaries.

The conference may continue months.

Organization and adoption of rules was to be the first order of business. Seating of delegates and examination of their credentials is another important matter that will confront the delegates before many hours have passed.

Germany, under the treaty, is not entitled to representation because she is not yet a member of the league nor was she one of those nations invited to join. Mexico is in the same status.

Yet Germany weeks ago prepared to send delegates trusting to the good nature of the conference to receive and seat them. Sweden and other former northern neutrals are understood to have instructed their delegates to fight to seat the German delegates.

Another question that is puzzling to the conference is the seating of those delegates from nations which have not yet ratified the peace treaty. Strictly speaking they are not members of the league and therefore unentitled to representation.

It may be weeks, officials said today, before the conference finishes clearing up knotty questions and gets down to business.

Meanwhile Washington hostesses are preparing to take advantage of the delay to lure to their tables and their teas many foreign notables here for the conference.

Personal eccentricities just now are noticeable in every hotel lobby. There is the delegate with untrimmed hair but who is "just deeply intellectual—writes books, you know, my dear." There are breeches that were cut in fashionable Bond Street, London, wasp waist coats from the Paris boulevards and felt hats with feather decorations at the side from Italy.

And, of course, with the delegates, or many of them, are their wives wearing Paris gowns and hats.

Washingtonians foresee a "mad social whirl" this winter as a result of the world's first international congress for workers.

Mrs. Jerome Boyles left this morning for a visit with Mrs. Ollie Clendennen in Gardner, Ills.

FESLER HEADS TRUSTEES OF INDIANA UNIVERSITY

Dr. H. A. Hoffman Elected Vice President of University—Faculty Salaries Raised.

By United Press

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 29—Indiana University trustees in session here elected J. W. Fesler of Indianapolis president, to succeed the late T. F. Rose of Muncie, whose death occurred late in the summer. Dr. Samuel E. Smith of Richmond was chosen vice president. All members of the board were present with the exception of B. F. Long of Logansport, who was detained at his home by illness. Those at the meeting were: J. W. Fesler, Indianapolis; Dr. S. E. Smith, Richmond; George A. Ball, Muncie; Frank H. Hatfield, Evansville; Charles M. Neiser, Fort Wayne; Edwin Corr and Ira C. Bateman, Bloomington.

The first meeting was taken up in reading the minutes of the board and the executive meeting and the report of President W. L. Bryan. Mr. Fesler, the new president of the board, has been a trustee seventeen years and was elected the same year Dr. Bryan was made president of the institution. Mr. Fesler is an alumnus of the class of '87.

At the closing session of the board Dr. H. A. Hoffman was elected vice president of the university; Dr. C. E. Edmonson was elected dean of men; Miss Grace Philpott, daughter of the Rev. Allan B. Philpott of Indianapolis, was named assistant dean of women, and Dr. H. L. Smith was made director of the summer school, to succeed Dr. Will D. Howe, who recently resigned his position on the faculty to enter the publishing business in New York city.

The salaries of the members of the faculty were all generally increased.

Reed Faces Four Charges.

Columbus, Ind., October 29—Charges of blackmail, attempting to commit a felony, intoxication and assault and battery were filed in Circuit Court here against Enzer Reed, paroled from the state prison, to which the prisoner pleaded not guilty, after he had asked the court, "Is that all?" Reed is alleged to have tried to extort $100 each from Herman Miller, W. S. Norton and Frank Stapp of Hope, as reparation for the part he insists they had in convicting him of dynamiting the Hope school building six years ago, of which he insists he was innocent.

SECOND OF MARY PICKFORD PRODUCTIONS AT PRINCESS

Famous Star Will be Seen in "The Hoodlum" Tomorrow and Friday.

Steering a high-powered sporty automobile down Riverside Drive is vastly different and not near as much fun as shoving a push cart down a tenement street, so Amy Burke, played by Mary Pickford, discovers in "The Hoodlum," the second production produced in her own studios which will be seen commencing tomorrow at the Princess Theatre.

Landing on sordid Creighton street as a snob Amy Burke is converted into a star crap-shooter, a nimble-fingered potato peeler, the official style setter for the tough girls and the most kindly and humanitarian person in the tenements.

From his Fifth Avenue estate Amy's grandfather watches his favorite with acute curiosity. He is more surprised to discover one night that Amy and a tenement friend are in the act of cracking his safe.

Replete with novel comedy situations, and softened by the romance of Amy and a tenement "towel thief," "The Hoodlum" is one of the most interesting and funniest of attractions.

REED CASE ON TRIAL IN JACKSON CIRCUIT COURT

Charged With Assault and Battery With Intent to Murder—Arteus Shepard Prosecuting Witness.

The trial of William D. Reed, who resides near Freetown, was started in the Jackson circuit court today. Reed is charged with assault and battery with intent to murder and Arteus Shepard, a neighbor, is the prosecuting witness. The case is being tried before a jury.

Reed was indicted by a grand jury last spring. According to evidence introduced today the defendant is alleged to have had trouble with Shepard over a fence line. The trouble is said to have occurred on February 27, 1919 on which day Reed is alleged to have assaulted Shepard and shot at him. A large number of witnesses were called to testify in the case.

The state is being represented by Prosecuting Attorney Simpson B. Lowe, of Bedford and the defendant's attorneys are John M. Lewis of this city and Branaman & Branaman, of Brownstown.

Mrs. H. G. Wagoner and sons, Millard and Carl, of Columbus spent today in this city. They moved to Columbus from here a few weeks ago.

derfully" since last Saturday, when his statement regarding the miners strike was issued. "You would think that different persons were writing, when you compare that statement with the one sent congress on the prohibition bill," Lewis said. "On Saturday he told the miners and the public the war was not ended and on Monday he told congress it was. Our contract with the operators expired when the war ended and we contend that was last November."

Miner officials were uncertain as to what steps they could take at the meeting today. Some were of the opinion that the meeting would have power to cancel the strike order while others contended that a convention of the miners would have to be called into session again before this could be accomplished. Lewis said the convention was recessed at Cleveland and can be reconvened within a few days if the operators show an inclination to "talk business."

dication points to the coming state gathering of the farmers as the greatest meeting of its kind ever held in Indiana. The officers, with a one hundred per cent. organized state as their goal, are bending every effort to have at least seventy counties fully organized and affiliated in time to take part in the state convention.

Aside from the election of officers at the coming state convention, many problems of construction legislation, important resolutions, and changes in the constitution of the Federation are to be presented to the delegates for consideration. The aims and policy to be followed out for the ensuing year along with many routine matters leads to the prediction that it will take the farmers at least two days to transact all of their business.

One of the features of the convention will be a complete report by the present officers outlining the various activities of the Federation since its founding last March. This report will show how the farmers were saved thousands of dollars on binder twine; how the federation has co-operated with other farm bureau organizations in surrounding states; the initiative taken a tenuous conferences held at Washington; the fight made against grain dealers who were under paying the producers of wheat and many other activities.

BEAUTIFUL DISPLAY OF DAHLIAS AT FARMERS CLUB

Fifty-seven Varieties Grown By Hyatt and Fredricks Displayed In The Lobby.

A most beautiful display of dahlias grown by Hyatt and Fredricks is on display in the lobby at the Farmers club today. The display includes fifty-seven varieties in many colors. Many people visited the Farmers club this afternoon to see the fine display and it is believed that many more would have been present had it not been for the rain. The flowers will be on display until 9 o'clock this evening and it is expected that many will visit the Farmers' tonight to see them.

WAS JUST WHAT SHE WANTED

Furniture Attendant Had No Trouble Selling That Particular Sofa to the Young Lady.

The fair young thing drifted into the furniture shop like a motor-bus in wet weather.

An attendant stepped forward with a winning smile.

"I—er—want—a—er—sofa," she muttered, coyly.

"Excuse me, miss," asked the wise young man, "but have you a sweetheart?"

She blushed red and yet more red, and nodded violently.

"And is he bashful?"

"Yes," she replied, stirred at the recollection of her wrongs; "and he sits right at the other end of the sofa from me."

"Ah, indeed! Well, here is the very thing for you."

"That? It's broken, surely! Why, it is shaped like the letter 'V'?"

"That is our specialty. We call it the 'Cupid Slide' sofa. Try one. That young man will no longer be able to sit at the opposite end. He'll meet you half-way."

She bought one on condition it was to be delivered before 8 p. m. that evening.

Tortoise Days.

According to Captain Ogilvie of the British army, who lectured recently in London on the subject of Macedonia, the animal which is to be found in more parts of the country than any other is, perhaps, the tortoise. In the British Isles the creature is seen so rarely in its native hedge or crawling about the orchard that the instantaneous popularity of the animal—according to the captain—with the British Tommy on the Macedonian front need not be doubted. Tommy, in fact, found that, like Mark Twain's jumping frog, it had many points of fascination and formed an endless source of amusement. The soldiers finally hit upon the idea of forwarding the strange pets through the mails to "the folks at home." So many of the tortoises found their way to the British shores in this fashion that finally the authorities stepped in and prohibited further importation—at least by post.

COULD MARCH UNDER WATER

French Writer Has Novel Idea to Enable Soldiers to Cross Streams Not Too Deep.

Doctor Nadal, writing in the Journal de Medicine de Bordeaux, urges training soldiers to walk through a running stream and walk entirely submerged for certain stretches. With a little training, he says, troops can thus accomplish the crossing of a river over 90 feet wide and not much over nine feet deep, each carrying a load weighing from 66 to 88 pounds.

SIMPLY COULD NOT FORGET

Macaulay's Memory Could Only Be Described as Marvellous—John Bright a Close Second.

Talking of quickness in repartee a story of Sydney Smith was cited I had not yet heard. "Do tell me, Mr. Smith," exclaimed a rather gushing young lady, "what is dogmatism?" "My dear young lady," he replied, "dogmatism is only puppyism grown older."

I remember at breakfast one day at my father's, Lord Macaulay began to repeat some trashy old historical ballads, and so went on verse after verse until my father exclaimed, "Why, Macaulay, how can you have committed all that rubbish to memory? What utter waste of time!" "Committed to memory!" cried Macaulay. "I only wish I could forget it. I simply glanced over those verses when standing at a bookstall one day." If I remember rightly, he said at the same time that if the first four books of Milton's "Paradise Lost" were destroyed, he could reproduce them word for word.

Mr. Bright and Mr. Longfellow met each other for the first time at my breakfast table and were mightily delighted with each other. Again the conversation turned upon memory, and John Bright asked Mr. Longfellow whether he could identify and claim every line of poetry he had ever written. Mr. Longfellow thought he could not. Then he in turn put the question—would Mr. Bright be able to identify every one of the speeches he had made? "Yes," said Mr. Bright, "not every passage, perhaps, taken by itself, but given a certain amount of the context I undoubtedly could."—From "The Notebook of a Spinster Lady."

ness houses along the two streets where the "Great White Way" is to be installed will be moved to the alleys. The poles have been installed in the alleys to take care of the wires moved from the streets but this work will require some time inasmuch as practically all of the business houses will be compelled to have some changes made in their wiring as in many cases the feed lines connect at the front of the buildings and as a result of the change of the electric light wires it will be necessary to arrange the wiring to connect from the rear. However, the work will be pushed rapidly and it will not interfere with the progress of installing the lighting system, it was stated by a member of the committee today.

The Bevins Plumbing and Electric Company which has the contract for installing the lighting system is ready to start work just as soon as the streets are cleared of the electric light poles in order that it can spot the places where the new lamp posts will be installed. W. L. Clark, manager of the Bevins company, figures that it will take about forty-five days to install the system.

STRONG SPEAKERS ON LOCAL PROGRAM

Central Christian church will serve dinner for the visitors at the noon hour at the church.

The program will be devoted to missionary work and to church problems. One of the principal speakers will be Frederick W. Burnham, of Cincinnati, president of the United Christian Missionary Society, who will discuss American problems. He is an interesting speaker and has kept in close touch with American problems for several years.

Another speaker will be F. E. Smith, of Indianapolis, field representative of the Ministerial Welfare Association. He is secretary of the department of the organization which has to do with pensions for aged disabled ministers and will give this subject attention at the local meeting.

Mrs. Stearns, secretary of the Women's Missionary Society, will also give an address during the meeting. C. W. Cauble, state secretary, will deliver an address relative to the work which he has in charge, and Fred R. Davies, of Charlestown, district evangelist, will appear on the program.

The state has been divided into six districts and a meeting will be held in each district with the exception of the eastern and western which combined and will conduct a joint session at Indianapolis. The same program will be given at each meeting. The speakers will be at Prince-a feeble candle flame in a rough little window could speak volumes of warmth and rugged comfort to the wayfarer. Now, visible through prettily curtained windows in most homes, a rich appearing floor lamp tells a story of more modern tendency.

Many years ago, a candle on a mantle or crude shelf within a homely cabin meant a feeble glow of gladness for the sturdy home-steaders within the flickering circle. Now, what great contrast is offered by the radiant floor-lamp. Its gay light diffused by multi-colored shade of beauteous silk, sheds a softening influence on the modern family, and it symbolizes all of comfort, warmth and convenience that has come since those early days.

The home without a floor-lamp is devoid of one of the greatest and best true home-influences available to the average family. Our stock is wide. The price range is interestingly reasonable.

SOCIAL EVENTS

HALLOWE'EN SOCIAL.

Miss Ruth Blumer, West Laurel street, entertained the members of the "Carry On" class of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday School with a Hallowe'en party Tuesday evening.

The house was artistically and appropriately decorated for the occasion. The evening was spent very enjoyably with various Hallowe'en games, characteristic of which was fortune-telling by a witch who played her part in a very clever manner. Refreshments consisting of sandwiches, apples and popcorn were served.

Those of the class present were: Misses Ethel Dunn, Margaret Dunn, Mary Worley, Mary Biggs, Madge Moran, Evelyn Albrich, Mada Hoddapp, Helen McCurdy, Ruth Christie, Ruth Blumer and the teacher, Miss Mary E. Schmitt. The guests were Misses Margaret and Helen Kasting, Alice Marie and Olive Becker, Dorothy and Margaret Jacobs, Roberta Blumer, Thelma Hudson, Mrs. J. F. McCurdy, Raymond Blumer, Howard Blumer and Miss Veva Paul. Miss Dorothy Kirkhoff was an out-of-town guest.

MOCK WEDDING

The entertainment which was given last night at the Southwest Mission was very largely attended. The program consisted of a mock wedding which resulted in much merriment for the large number of guests. The part of Miss Samantha Jenkins, the bride, was taken by Miss Elsie Blevins, while the part of Joshua Jones, the groom, was played by William Rodert. Miss Susie Sage represented the minister, known as the Rev. Mr. Perkins. Miss Frances Ault and Benjamin Yount were the bridesmaid and best man. Ivor Rodert served as usher at the wedding party. Lottie Mae Ault and Alice Kieth were trail bearers. At the close of the mock wedding light refreshments were served. The prize for correctly guessing the names of all the members of the bridal party went to Miss Lucile Pickeral. The entertainment was one of the most successful that has been given at the Southwest Mission and those in charge of the evening's program are well pleased with the attendance and the interest that was manifested.

SHOWER.

Miss Josephine Cuddahee, entertained a number of friends with a Hallowe'en party Tuesday evening at her home 202 East Second street. The affair was arranged as a shower to Miss Lavenia Tovey, who will soon become the bride of Claire Pruden of Cortland.

The decorations were in keeping with the Hallowe'en season, with corn stalks, jack o'lanterns and yellow and black crepe paper. Bouquets of autumnal flowers were also used throughout the house. The gifts were placed in a 'witches' cauldron, arranged over a fire place in a corner of the room and were then presented to the honor guest. She received a large number of miscellaneous gifts.

The evening was spent with Hallowe'en games, contests, music and dancing and light refreshments were served.

Those present were the Misses Marie Brockhoff, Alice Monroe, Mary Himmler, Ruby Garis, Edna Banta, Edith and Ella Clements, Laura Schulte, the honor guest and hostess.

SHOWER.

Miss Martha Beikmann, a bride-elect, was the guest of honor at a shower given by the Young Ladies Society of the Lutheran Church Tuesday evening at the club house. She received a large number of gifts. The evening was spent with music and cards and a light luncheon was served.

LOYAL DEVOIR.

The Loyal Devoir Society of the Central Christian church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Claude Perkhiser, East Third street, with Mrs. Purkhiser and Mrs. U. G. Palmer, hostesses. The guests at the meeting were Mrs. Will Welsh, of Columbus, Mrs. Lula Gillespie and Mrs. Harry Perkhiser.

MARRIED IN LOUISVILLE.

W. N. Collins of Seymour, and Mrs. Marion Allen, of this place, were married last Thursday at Louisville, B. A. Rice and daughter accompanied them to Louisville and witnessed the ceremony—Scottsburg Chronicle.

ENTERTAINS BIBLE CLASS.

Miss Clara Taskey, 414 South Carter street, entertained the members of the Clio Bible Class of the St. Paul church, Tuesday evening, with a Hallowe'en social. About forty were present.

The house was elaborately decorated with corn stalks jack o'lanterns and yellow and black crepe paper streamers, which extended from the chandelier to the four corners of the table. Miniature Hallowe'en candles were given as favors. A feature of the evening's entertainment, was the telling of fortunes by Miss Virgie Taskey, who was dressed to represent a gypsy. Later in the evening the guests unmasked and lights refreshments were served.

Big Lot of Hay Fever Jokes

But Kerkucky Man Says—"People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony are Kidding Themselves."

Wouldn't Be Any Rose or Hay Fever if Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"Yes, there's a real NINETY-NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city.

"But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning."

"The annual crop of hay-fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get an ounce of Mentholized Arcine and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer."

"Many of my hay-fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and snuff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear and in cases where it does show up is very mild and does not annoy."

"The Better Class of Pharmacists" who dispense Mentholized Arcine say it will greatly modify any attack even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin.

If Your Nerves Are Shaky Because of Over-Indulgence in Tobacco or Alcohol or by Excess of Any Kind, Bio-Feren Is What You Need Right Away.

Don't grow old before your time, don't let nervousness wreck your happiness or chances in life. The man with strong, steady nerves is full of vigor, energy, ambition and confidence. You can have nerves of steel, firm step, new courage and keep mind by putting your blood and nerves in first-class shape with mighty Bio-Feren, a new discovery, inexpensive and efficient.

Men and women who get up so tired in the morning that they have to drag themselves to their daily labor will in just a few days arise with clear mind, definite purpose and loads of ambition. All you have to do is to take two Bio-Feren tablets after each meal and one at bedtime—7 a day for 7 days—then reduce to one after each meal until all are gone.

Then if your energy and endurance haven't doubled, if your mind isn't keener and eyes brighter, if you don't feel twice as ambitious as before, any drug anywhere will return the purchase price—gladly and freely.

Bio-Feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, run-down, weak, anaemic men and women ever offered and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

TEACHERS WILL ATTEND MEETING

is by no means recreation as the majority of the teachers make a close study of the suggestions that are offered by the speakers.

Mr. Mott has been in Indianapolis for several days attending conferences of superintendents and educators in which he was particularly interested. Mr. Henderson went to Indianapolis this morning and will meet with the county superintendents of the state on important school business.

Watch the Little Pimples; They are Nature's Warning

Unsightly and Disfiguring Signs of Bad Blood.

Pimples on the face and other parts of the body are warnings from Nature that your blood is sluggish and impoverished. Sometimes they foretell eczema, boils, blisters, and other skin disorders that burn like flames of fire.

They mean that your blood needs S. S. S. to cleanse it of these impure accumulations that can cause ness. Some of the teachers went to Indianapolis upon the adjournment of the classes this afternoon while others will leave Thursday. The Pennsylvania Lines are offering a special rate of one and one-third of the regular one-way fare for the round trip. This makes the round trip ticket from Seymour to Indianapolis cost $2.75. However, this special rate is not given by the railroad unless the teachers first present certificates showing that they are regularly employed in the public schools and are going to Indianapolis to attend the state meeting.

This will be the first association meeting to be held since 1917. Last year the influenza epidemic made its annual meeting impossible.

Some of the greatest educators and entertainers of the United States will be there to assist in the programs. Indianapolis has a number of excellent theaters and the theater season is now on. Lovers of football will be given the opportunity of seeing Indiana and Notre Dame battle at Washington park Saturday afternoon for state honors. This will be the annual game played by Indiana university in Indianapolis for the benefit of the teachers attending the state association meeting.

Thursday will be devoted to sectional meetings. For these meetings all of the large rooms in Indianapolis have been secured in order that the great host of educators can be accommodated. Teachers will attend the meetings where subjects in connection with the work they are teaching are dealt with. For example, teachers of English will attend the meeting of the English association to be held in Caleb Mills hall in the morning and in the Masonic Temple auditorium in the afternoon. The majority of the high school principals will attend the principals' meeting at the K. of P. hall in the morning and the meeting of the State High School Athletic association at the Murat theater in the afternoon.

Thursday evening, all day Friday, and Saturday morning general meetings will be held. Thursday evening and Friday morning, afternoon and evening, four of these general meetings will be in session at the same time. A teacher can take his choice of which one he will attend at each period. Dr. Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, will address the entire association in a big mass meeting at Tomlinson hall.

Eminent men of the United States who are considered as authorities in their lines have been engaged to speak at the general meeting. Among them are such men as Hon. Frank O. Lowden, governor of Illinois; Dr. Charles A. Prosser, federal director of vocational education; Dr. Henry Euzzallo, president of the University of Washington; Charles Edward Russell, noted novelist and magazine writer; Dr. William L. Bryan, president of Indiana university; and Dr. James S. McGaw, Pittsburgh. Women have been given their place upon the program. Some of the prominent women educators who will speak are Miss Patty S. Hill, New York; Miss Amalia Bengston, county superintendent, Olivia, Minn., and Miss Mabel Lee Cooper, West Tennessee Normal Memphis.

Mrs. Sadie Weinland Rife, of Shellsburg, Iowa, arrived Tuesday evening and is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Jay C. Smith.

FEDERAL AGENTS ALREADY ACTIVE

lectors have been instructed to get in touch with governors and mayors in each state and request their co-operation in urging upon sheriffs and all other local officers the vital necessity of their immediately assuming their responsibilities under the new act.

The deficiency bill agreed to by the senate yesterday provides $300,000 a month for enforcing prohibition. The house was planning to take similar action today.

Dry leaders in both houses today denied reports that any effort would be made to pass a bill making the nation dry between the time the president declares war-time prohibition at an end and the beginning of constitutional prohibition, January 16, 1920. Such action could be accomplished only by exercise of war powers, which would be void after the proclamation of peace.

At the same time dry leaders here believe that war-time prohibition and constitutional prohibition will merge, since President Wilson has let it be known that he will not lift the war-time ban until ratification of the peace treaty.

Interest here is centering in the efforts of liquor dealers to force the government to allow them to dispose of the supplies now on hand. If the supreme court should sustain the action of the federal court at Louisville, which held the war-time act unconstitutional because it deprives holders of bonded liquor of the right to dispose of their supplies, it would offer liquor owners relief.

It was also pointed out that in case the government does not allow bonded liquor to be sold loss of more than $300,000,000 in revenue will result.

About sixty million gallons are now in bond, and the tax of $6.40 per gallon has been paid on only ten million gallons of this large supply.

CHAPTER XIII.

Monsieur Appeals to Me.

The effect of our words on monsieur was the last thing we could have foreseen. He had been standing all this while. He sank heavily into his chair, buried his face in his hands—and wept! Billy raised disgusted eyes to the ceiling, inviting it to come down with a noise and end the unpleasant spectacle of a man crying tears on a rug. Then catching my commiserating eye, Billy communicated his ideas on the subject with a little sneer of his lip and a little shrug of his shoulder. The next instant, he had seized me by the arm and pulled me along the hall whispering: "While he's on the weep we can talk," and he thrust me inside the bedroom door, himself remaining on the sill with an eye to the dining room.

Monsieur continued to weep—possibly he thought we'd left him out of consideration for his emotion.

"Say—this is the very deuce of a hole," Billy began in a rapid whisper, "the very devil of a hole. What we must do is to go to Washington tomorrow—"

"But, Billy—"

"Well, tonight, then—we can catch the midnight train and be there the first thing in the morning."

"I won't. At least, not now. Do please listen. I won't do anything till I've seen Mrs. Delario—"

"What the good of wasting time seeing her?" he interrupted. "Here's a case where hours count—minutes—seconds, for all we know. How'll she help, anyway?"

"That's not the question. She entrusted them to me—so she's the one to take them back to first—and then if she says—"

"Oh, you know what she'll say," he argued. "Women are always that way—don't want any trouble. Now, you take the bull by the horns—go to Washington tonight."

"No. I'm responsible to her."

"How can you be—when she only found them where the girl must have put them? He'll confess that, too, when he gets over his weeps."

"Oh, well, since you've got 'em, I suppose you'll do as you like for all of my advice," Billy said glumly, stuffing his hands in his pockets. "But if you'll take my advice, you'll not waste time over anything—it's too serious."

"Billy, dear, do listen to reason for half a second. What are we going to tell the president? We haven't got the whole story even yet out of him—I pointed in the direction of the dining room—and there mustn't be any gap in it. We've got to see Mrs. Delario and get her evidence—we've got to see Claire—"

"He'll make her say anything."

"You and I can break her down under cross-examination. You see, we haven't a thing but his word—"

"And the diamonds," Billy interrupted. "I'm taking your word for those—you didn't see fit to show 'em to me."

His tone was a trifle sarcastic, indicating that there might still be some legitimate doubt as to the existence of the stones in question, in spite of all the adventure over them; but I ignored it and went on: "He made one slip—I saw it at the time, and now I can't remember what it was. It went slap out of my head and it was important—something about . . . No, I can't remember. It was a sort of key to something else—"

"Can't you think?" urged Billy. "Every little detail's important now. And lordy-lord—what a story, and my scoop!"

The reporter was romping around in Billy's inside, determined to push the story to a finish; while romping around in my insides was my natural caution. Why should we do anything to warn the Emperor William? He might deny everything and say he never even heard of the diamonds!

Yes, one false step would make Billy and me the laughing-stock of diplomatic circles throughout the world. We must get all our proof before we divulged the secret on which the fate of our nation depended.

The net result of our hurried colloquy was that we returned to the dining room and silently relieved the still-sorrowing monsieur of his handcuffs. Which done, Billy presented him with leave of absence from our society in the words:

"Monsieur, you are free to go," and added a courtly bow.

I bowed also. Thus we signified with all the manners we possessed that the interview, pleasing as it had been, was at an end.

Our action—simple enough to us and in line with the plan we'd just mapped out for getting at the truth—left monsieur as dazed as anything we'd done; inexplicably, we had abruptly set him adrift, without threats or explanations and without—the diamonds. I smiled and said, quite as though he'd been drinking tea with me: "I'll say good night to you, monsieur." With that, I held out my hand.

Monsieur did not rise. He did not take my offered hand. He stared—a really frightened, childish stare, first at me, then at Billy. He had been dismissed—every second he longer remained marked him a trespasser. Yet he remained, glued to his chair and dumb. Speech seemed to have deserted him. Twice he essayed it, but the words stuck in his throat and he looked to us to help him out.

The clock chimed the four-quarters to nine and then the hour. Monsieur spoke.

"I have place myself in your position as American and I appreciate your feeling," he began, and he went on to tell us as a man he grieved for us; how as a would-be friend he grieved for us; how as the emperor's messenger he grieved for us; and how I—in the innocent carrying off of a slipper from the customs house—one of a pair in which his daughter had, at his command, secreted a box of diamonds belonging to the emperor—had brought myself within the circle of implacable, all-seeing, all-avenging and never-ending wrath, whether the diamonds were lost, strayed, stolen from me, or drowned in the sea; wrath that would follow me and my name forever, world without end, amen.

"All right, let it," I replied curtly.

"But would it not be better to consider?" urged monsieur. "Ze wrass of ze emperor is terrible. Consider, madame, I beg you to consider. Zoze diamonds zat you have found in zat slipper you have ze misfortune to carry off. Consider to give zem back."

"They were not in the slipper I carried off."

Monsieur positively jumped. "Zey were not in zat slipper?"

"No—on my word of honor as a gentlewoman, monsieur, I tell you those diamonds were not in the slipper I carried off."

"Mon Dieu!" he said under his breath. "Madame Delario must have zem—in spite of her denial—in spite of zat I search ze entire house—and herself—and find also ze slipper in her wardrobe as she would not leave it if she find zoze diamonds."

"But she may not have found them—they may have fallen out and got lost—"

"Impossible—impossible," he interrupted. "I have examine bose zoze slippers—you see it is zis way: My daughter have glue ze box in one, safe, and on an evening you tell Madame Delario to wear zoze slippers and Claire have but just time to remove ze box and she returns it to ze uzzer slipper. It is zat little accident—and some words from yourself—zat convince me it is yourself who has found zoze diamonds—"

"No, monsieur. When you accused me of robbing Claire of jewelry I hadn't the least idea what you meant. I suppose you accused Mrs. Delario of the same thing? Didn't you accuse her of taking jewels from Claire—just as you did me—without specifying what kind of jewels?"

"Oui—yes. Naturally. I do not specify, for ze reason if she find ze diamonds, she know to what I refer; but if you have find zem, I do not tell for what I seek."

"Well, that's it, I do believe!" I exclaimed in the tone of having discovered the key to the whole difficulty. "You said jewels and she thought you meant what we should mean by it—as we use the word, we think of pins, bracelets, pendants, made-up articles, you understand."

"Ah, so zat is ze way of it!" he cried, popping off his chair in a hurry. "I see it is some error of idiom of ze language zat cause all ze trouble. I go immediately to ze estimable Madame Delario and explain all to her."

He took up his hat, which Billy had picked up off the floor after the scrimmage and laid on the dining-room table.

"Oh, monsieur—you a diplomat!" I flipped off. "And you think you can go to an American citizen after such accusations as you've made and say: 'It was all a mistake,' and settle everything?"

"But I apologize for ze mistake," he urged, as though his sweet apology paid for everything he'd done and brought forth a box of diamonds on a salver, here-they-are-thank-you-for-taking-them.

I laughed. "Suppose she won't accept your apology?" I asked, and before he got a reply, I added: "She probably won't even see you—not after the way you treated her."

"I bet she doesn't even see you," Billy supported, seeing my drive.

"What are you going to do?" He was anxious to make monsieur commit himself.

Monsieur twisted his hands nervously and I kept the ball rolling by observing slyly: "You have just told us that the most profound secrecy must be maintained, so you cannot call in the police. But there is one thing you can do—" I paused.

From Jelly Covering to Street Covering

WHEN you think of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) you visualize instantly gasoline, kerosene and lubricating oil.

True, these are the three fundamental products of manufacture, but the Company is proud of the fact that its service enters your life by many other doors.

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service, by keen initiative and ceaseless effort, is able to supply you with more than 2000 useful products, all made from petroleum.

The humble paraffin which seals your jelly glasses against the inroads of ferments, and the asphalt which covers the streets you drive upon, are by-products of petroleum, and there are hundreds of others, all servants of your daily needs.

Scores of other products, each vital to some specific industry, which in turn supplies you with needed merchandise, are made, wholly or in part, from portions of the crude oil which otherwise would be waste.

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) products are delivered by a network of stations and distribution systems, so complete that every hamlet of the Middle West is supplied.

Notwithstanding the wide range of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service, the Company is constantly striving to increase the number of useful products, and to intensify its service, so that it may fulfill to the utmost its obligation as a public servant.

National Legislation of the Meat Packing Industry

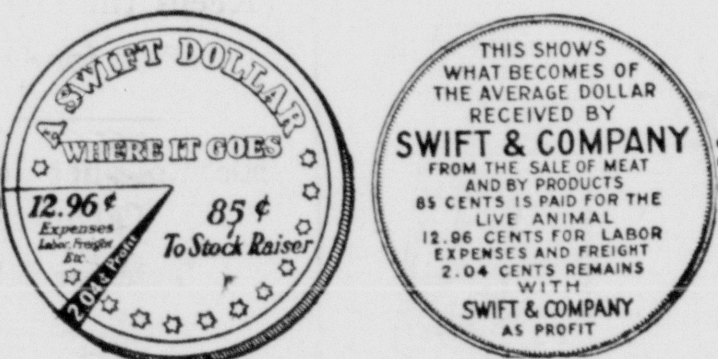

1. Will not increase the amount of meat you can buy for a dollar.
2. Will not raise more animals.
3. Will not produce more meat.
4. Will not stop fluctuations in live-stock receipts or prices.
5. Will not increase the output of the packing houses.
6. Will not prevent strikes.
7. Will not reduce transportation charges.
8. Will not reduce the retailer's cost of doing business.
9. Will not increase the demand for the cheaper cuts of meat.
10. Will not lessen the consumer's demand for expensive delivery and credit service.
11. Can not at the same time raise prices paid farmers for live stock, and lower prices paid by consumers for meat.

But the slowing up of efficiency due to cumbersome governmental routine will have the effect of increasing the manufacturing charges between the cost of live stock and the cost of meats, thus forcing lower live-stock prices or higher meat prices.

The packing industry as now conducted, is characterized by keen competition, highest efficiency, and unusually low profits.

How to act in an emergency is knowledge of inestimable worth, and this is particularly true of the diseases and ills of the human body. If you suffer with kidney backache, urinary disorders or any form of kidney trouble, the advice contained in the following statement should add a valuable asset to your store of knowledge. What would be more convincing proof of the efficiency of Doan's Kidney Pills than the statement of a Seymour citizen who used them and who publicly tells of the benefit derived?

Mrs. Julia Smith, 14 Booth St., Seymour, says: "I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and other troubles caused from weak kidneys. I have always found that Doan's Kidney Pills, taken according to directions, will do all that could be wished for. Doan's are fine and I gladly recommend them."

Learn Thrift!

You can shine your shoes 50 times with a box of SHINOLA. 50 shines would cost you $5.00 or more.

Well shined shoes add to your personal appearance. SHINOLA makes shoes wear longer as the wax and oils protect the surface, keep the leather soft and pliable.

It pays to give your shoes good care when they cost so much.

How About Your Glasses?

Don't you think that because they cause you no trouble they can't be improved upon.

As you grow older your eyes change. They should be thoroughly examined at least once in two years.

It is my business to examine eyes and advise if glasses are needed or if those you now wear are right, rather than to just sell glasses. I do not charge any more than you must pay elsewhere for competent service and dependable glasses.
